Pit bull measure muzzle owners

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Owning and keeping a pit bull within city limits is now complicated and expensive. An ordinance restricting pit bull owners was unanimously passed, without discussion, by the City Council on Tuesday.

Pit bull owners must apply for a license within 48 hours of getting the dog. At that time they must give the city clerk:

- A photo copy of their driver license.
- Proof of ownership of the dog.
- An immunization and health record for the dog prepared by a veterinarian.
- A certificate of insurance showing coverage of not less than $300,000 for any injury, damage or loss caused by the dog.

Two photos of the dog, one front and one side view, no more than a month old.

A fee of $25.

Any other information required by the city clerk.

The clerk will then forward the application to the city inspector, who will inspect the place where the dog is to be kept.

Depot renaming to be tomorrow

GRANITE CITY — Kenneth J. Gray, U.S. representative from the 22nd Illinois District, will be keynote speaker tomorrow at the renaming of the former Granite City Army Depot in honor of the late Rep. Mel Price.

Gray, whose district adjoins the 21st, which was served by Cong. Price from January 1945 until his death in April, will pay tribute to his longtime friend and associate in his remarks.

The Army base, whose parent organization is the U.S. Army Aviation Systems Command (AVSCOM), St. Louis, will become the Charles Melvin Price Support Center in a ceremony scheduled for July 1 at 11 a.m. It has been known in recent years as the St. Louis Area Support Center.

Mrs. Geraldine Price, widow of the congressman, will be guest of honor for the dedication ceremony and will make brief remarks of acceptance.

Also scheduled to attend is Dr. William Price, son of the Prices, and Rep. Price's brother, Harold Price.

A company of soldiers, assembled from Army units in this area, will stand at attention as the colors are

Council against mayor's appointments

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — Psychological storm clouds were gathering Tuesday before the City Council meeting. The storm never really broke with the fury one alderman had promised, but for the usually quiet Madison meetings it qualified as a genuine thunder-buster.

At issue was Mayor John Bellicoff's list of appointments to city posts — appointments which the council refused to confirm.

The resistance was symbolic only. The mayor may make the appointments on a 30-day basis over the council's objections and continue renewing them every 30 days for as long as he stays in office.

Bellicoff proposes to have Police Chief Charlie Bridick continue as chief and succeed Dan Sipes as Emergency Services and Disaster Agency director. Dan Poston would replace Ron Grzywacz Jr. as humane officer (animal control).

Robert Bosworth would replace Fred

Finazzo as Fire Department captain.

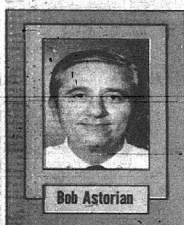

Don Whitcomb would replace Sipes as Fire Department lieutenant. Finazzo and Sipes would be demoted to firemen.

The changes would be retroactive to May 1. Bellicoff said he would not implement them, however, until after the next council meeting July 12. He said he hopes to have obtained aldermen's approval by the time that meeting is concluded.

"I'll make them (the fire appointments) anyway," Bellicoff said. "I'll do (the rest of the appointments) one at a time."

Public reviews possible candidates

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Selection of the six possible mayoral candidates used in the Press-Record survey was based on the best available rumors.

Contacted about the survey results, none of the six were surprised to find themselves on the list and none denied possible entry in the race. Told the other names, each said the list matched expectations.

Some of their comments were:

"It does surprise me that so many people know who I am," former Police Chief Bob Astorian said. Astorian resigned to take the top post with the Madison County Department of Probationary and Court Services.

"I was involved in the sheriff's race, so I guess that helped."

Asked about running for mayor, Astorian said: "I am not a candidate at this time. I heard my name kicked around several months ago, but I'm really not a political person."

"I did want to be Madison County sheriff and the only way to be that is to run for it. I got involved with the race and I really enjoyed it."

"But I'm kind of looking forward to my

Name recognition survey results, methodology discussed

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The Press-Record survey concerning possible mayoral candidates is a name recognition survey. It consisted of three questions about each of the six known, possible candidates: "Do you recognize the name?" "Do you know what he does?" "Concerning the name, do you feel good, bad or indifferent?" The results are based on 105 complete responses received in a random citywide telephone survey conducted June 23-24. Random phone numbers from each local prefix were called. The identity of the person responding was not asked or recorded. Incomplete responses were not included. Responses from persons who identified themselves as nonresidents of Granite City were not included.

Percentages shown for the second and third questions are only of those persons responding "yes" to the first question. The answers to the second question were judged as correct or incorrect based upon the possible candidate's present, or past, jobs. For example, "school teacher," "alderman," "trucking firm heir" and "school board member" were all considered correct for Paul Ray Bowler. A lot of leeway was allowed in this category. "Politician who sat next to me in high school" was considered acceptable, "editor of the Press-Record" was not. "From a scientific standpoint, the survey may or may not accurately reflect how the public would vote if the election were held tomorrow," said Jack C.

Ventimiglia, executive editor, East Side Publications. "We view it as an interesting opinion poll, but make no pretenses that it is accurate beyond the opinions of 105 people."

•Poll— 105 Granite Citizens talk about candidates

new job right now." Paul Ray Bowler, District 9 School Board member and a former alderman, also said he was surprised with the number who knew his name. "I'm really pleased with that. 'Yes I am considering running for mayor. I think the survey looks pretty positive. I think that's great.' Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he was pleased with the survey results. "I don't think 5 percent negative is bad at all," he said. "Five percent? Jesus couldn't please everyone." Cruse did not deny or confirm that he will run again. "Right now I'm giving it a lot of thought. There are a lot of good people in Granite. Any one of them would probably make a really good mayor — in 1993." Cruse said he would never enter a race he didn't plan to win. "I've been so busy trying to make things happen here in the city that I haven't had much time for politics ... I will be trying to find time in the near future." Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney said: "I've had a lot of people talk to me about (running for mayor), but I don't really know what I'm going to do. Don't rule anything out. I don't believe in ever ruling anything out." Partney said he neither liked nor trusted surveys, but said the results were "kind of typical for this stage of the game." He said nothing counts until the race really starts and issues become clear. "I'm not really surprised. Most people know me, know something about me. The main thing is they know your name. The negative means I'm kind of controversial. You know that." He was a mayor candidate in 1977 and 1981. Street Superintendent Mac Warfield said he thought his numbers in the survey were pretty good, but as for entering the race: "Right now I will make no comment." He ran in 1985. Seventh Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen said: "That many people know my name? I've almost got to say I'm thrilled." "Four percent bad? I can live with that any day. I feel good (about the results). It sounds good, real good. The other 71 percent (indifferent) — what politicians have to go for in any race. "I'm not ruling (running for mayor) out. It is a possibility. I've heard a lot of talk and a lot of people have talked to me about it. I'm really open to the idea, but I'm leaning toward running for alderman again."

Orphanage, hard times, distance divided them, but after 35 years of searching and wondering, they're...

Together

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — When Mason Page, a wiry Kentucky coal miner, died of tuberculosis in December 1949, his widow, a quiet, determined woman, had little money.

Virginia Page faced raising six children on a $32 monthly Social Security check. She tried. They struggled, and the family got by — for a while. Virginia would never have given up the struggle if the effects of kidney disease hadn't drained her energy. The disease and lack of money drove her to a decision in February 1952 — the family had to separate.

Albert, 20, the oldest, went to Chicago where he began doing odd jobs while Evelyn, 16, and Jewell, 15, were sent to live with relatives. Virginia kept the three youngest children — Bill, 13, Patricia, 9, and David, 7. She hoped for better times to unite the family.

A year and seven months later, on Sept. 2, 1953, Virginia Page died of kidney failure. The six children came together again, briefly, at her funeral.

After the burial, the three oldest children went off as they'd done before, and the three youngest, with no one to care for them, became wards of Hill Crest Orphanage in Hot Springs, Ark.

During the next 35 years, the Page children would be spread across the nation, six orphan members of a divided family in search of itself.

The search ended Saturday in Granite City.

Evelyn (Page) Kaleta, 55, sat with family members Saturday in her Granite City home remembering hard times in the early '50s. The Page family's three-room "shotgun" house in Kentucky had been crowded with seven people and there wasn't much to eat on $32 a month.

"Beans and potatoes — that was about it. Most of that was donations from the neighbors," Evelyn says.

Virginia worked with what she had and Evelyn recalls her as being "a mother that really loved her kids. She did not want to give them up, but there was nothing she could do."

When Virginia could no longer care for her six children, she called the three oldest together. "She just asked if the older kids could be separated. And we said, 'No, we'd rather stay home,' and she said she just couldn't do it," Evelyn said.

"I was very quiet. I wouldn't say anything. I was in a state of shock, I guess," Evelyn said. "When we left, she cried, naturally, but she said it was for the best."

Virginia hoped to get the family back together... Three years after Virginia's funeral, Evelyn left her uncle in Granite City in 1956 and went to Germany as a military wife. While there, she tried to reach Patricia, Bill and David in the orphanage, but her efforts were denied.

"The home told me not to write them because they were there and that was where they were going to stay," Evelyn said. Evelyn said she learned years later that the three children never received the letters and presents she'd sent.

During the nine years she lived in Germany, Evelyn heard nothing from her brothers and sisters. When she returned to Granite City in 1965, Evelyn discovered that Patricia, Bill and David had left the orphanage.

Evelyn had no idea how to find three brothers and two sisters, but her oldest brother, Albert, found her. In 1967 while he worked as a truck driver making deliveries to the arpa, Albert followed up on a tip that Evelyn lived in Granite City. He called the police and they helped him find her.

After not seeing any of her brothers and sisters for more than 10 years, Evelyn said, it was great to see Albert and it made her want to see the others, too, but that dream went unanswered for 10 years.

Evelyn and Albert weren't the only ones wanting the Page family reunited. Unknown to both of them, Bill Page, who lives in Chicago, was searching with the help of his wife, Sandy, a woman with a bloodhound's drive.

1977 was a momentous year for the Page family. Sandy brought Bill and Evelyn back together, and with the help of an aunt, Evelyn also got an address for Jewell, who was living in London.

Jewell told Evelyn to search in New Jersey for Patricia, and with Sandy on the scent, Patricia and Evelyn were reunited. Five of the six children had been found. Only David remained unaccounted for, and Evelyn wanted to find the baby of the family.

In January 1987, Sandra was let loose. First she searched for David's birth certificate and Social Security number, but the certificate offered no hint of his whereabouts and administration representatives refused to provide his Social Security number.

Back at Square One, Sandra heard from Patricia, who said David had once talked about moving to California. Pulling some strings and crossing her fingers, Sandra got a friendly policeman in California to run a driver's license check at Sandra's request. Nothing.

During Christmas 1987, Evelyn heard from Jewell, who said she remembered hearing that David had attended Northern Arizona State University.

With that as a lead, Sandra again called her friend in California and asked him to check licenses in Arizona. He reported there was a license issued to a David Page, but the license had expired two years earlier, in 1985.

Evelyn worried that David might be dead, but the policeman said that wasn't the case. If David had died, that also would have showed up on the computer.

Next stop, the library. Phone books in Arizona listed nothing for David Page.

Still on the hunt, Sandra decided to take a chance. To find David, she advertised in the Arizona Republic, a newspaper with a statewide circulation.

A private investigator in Phoenix, John Mandez, called in response to the ad.

"He said, 'I found (David), but you're not going to like where I found him. In jail,'" Sandra said. She demanded proof.

Later that day, a man claiming to be David called from the jail in Flagstaff. The man said he had been arrested on a traffic charge.

Sandy realized there was no way to know who it was from the voice. The last time her husband, David, was 9 years old. She needed something to go on and Bill supplied a detail.

Sandy asked the stranger, "What did they call Bill when you lived in the orphanage?"

"They called him BW," the man answered, giving the first and middle initials of Billie Wayne Page's name. Sandy knew then that she'd found David.

Evelyn sat on her living room couch Saturday with Bill on her right and David on her left. David had 35 years to catch up on, and despite the beard, he was already acting like a kid brother and Evelyn like an older sister.

"Now that you've found David, what do you do with him?" Evelyn was asked.

She laughed. "Ship him back to Arizona."

"This time I'm going to change my name and phone number," David fired back, bright-eyed with mirth.

The two laughed and hugged. "Evelyn," another question began, "what would your mother, Virginia, think of all the children finally having been found?"

"I think she would have been happy. The last words that she spoke before she died were, 'I'm going to get well and get all my kids back home. They're home.'"

Class of '38 plans reunion

The June 1938 class of Granite City High School will hold its 50th reunion Friday, Oct. 14, at 6:30 p.m. at Sunset Hills Country Club, Edwardsville.

There are still a few graduates of that class who have not been located. The committee hopes to hear from anyone who can furnish addresses or information on the following people: Kenneth Niepert, Catherine Schueter, Earl Vickers, Earl Zimmer, Gerair Kambarian, Ruth Gruener Berry, Thelma Mays, Rohrbacker, William Schattgen, William H. West, Audrey Wiesman Hood, George Rupp and David Carty.

A spokesman said, "If you can help us reach these people, please contact any one of the following: Lorraine Kreher Parkinson, 876-3640; Thelma Barnett Peterson, 877-1303; Frances Harper, 931-1132; or Harry Fryntko, 451-7548.

Harmon chosen for scientific program

By Edward T. Hearn

WASHINGTON — Richard Harmon, a Granite City High School student, has been named to attend a two-week program this summer for promising scientists at the Argonne National Laboratory.

Harmon, a 17-year-old junior, was selected among 311 other high school students from around the country and Puerto Rico under a four-year-old program created by the U.S. Department of Energy.

time and find out what their objections are." The meeting began routinely, with adoption of motions to discontinue the reading of the last meeting's minutes and to pay current city bills, copies of which are distributed in advance. A bid for a new roof on the library was accepted. A zoning variance was granted.

Then the meeting went into private-session to discuss whether to grant appeal hearings to Fire Dept. Lt. Sipes, who was facing two suspensions for allegedly violating work rules.

Sipes and others waited nervously in the hall. When the meeting resumed Sipes was told his hearings would be July 6. (He later asked a reporter to attend, saying the suspensions were "political" and related to Belcoff's desire to replace him as ESDA director.)

Then Belcoff read a list of appointments that included all but the Fire Department positions.

Alderman Charles Rockett objected to the reappointment of Playground and Recreation Director Jim Broadway.

"I'm not satisfied," Rockett said with some heat. "Every time you call (Broadway), he has a real nasty attitude."

Alderman Norris Horton nodded agreement. Leaders in West Madison say they feel the West Madison Recreation Center, 901 W. Third St., has inadequate equipment.

"I appreciate your concern, Charlie," replied Belcoff, "but I have made the appointment."

Alderman George Amisch moved to accept the appointments.

"Any seconds?" asked Belcoff. There was more silence.

"No seconds," Rockett tried to make a motion, but Alderman John Hamm raised a point of order that there was a motion already before the council.

Belcoff asked Amisch if he wanted to move to withdraw his motion. Amisch did so and this was second and approved.

Maj. Gen. Richard E. Stephenson, commander of AVSCOM, will unveil an artist's portrayal of the new front entrance to the post with its sign depicting the new name, the Charles Melvin Price Support Center.

At the same time, an identical new main gate sign will be unveiled, Stephenson will also present a commemorative plaque to Mrs. Price.

Business and governmental leaders from throughout the district will attend the ceremony. The public is invited.

The center, comprised of 330 acres near Granite City, is commanded by Lt. Col. John J. Magrosky. Still officially called the St. Louis Area Support Center until the July 1 ceremony, the post dates to 1942 when it was opened as an Army Corps of Engineers storage depot and processing and distribution center.

Rockett moved to table consideration of the appointments until the next meeting. Horton seconded and the motion passed unanimously.

"Okay," said Belcoff. "I've got the appointments for the first department — do you want me to make them or do you want to table them too?"

Motion passed.

Belcoff then read the list and a discussion followed, during which Alderman Ron Grzywacz asked if Fire Chief Robbie Robbins had been consulted. Hamm asked Robbins, who was present.

"He (Belcoff) made the suggestions and I accepted them, Robbins said softly.

Belcoff offered that he "just wanted to give the younger men a chance to be leaders" by replacing Finazzo and Sipes with Bosworth and Whitecotton.

Alderman Don Wilson Sr. objected that "Bosworth has already been an officer."

Amisch moved to accept the appointments, seconded by Hamm. Those two were the only aldermen to vote "yes" on the motion. Rockett, Horton, Grzywacz and Wilson voted "nay."

Andy Economy abstained (Economy is a fireman). Alderman Richard Asperger was absent.

After adjournment, Belcoff said, "Everything will work out. You'll see."

Senators hear need for hate crimes tracking bill

WASHINGTON — The government needs to compile data on crimes of hate to take the first step to combat an alarming increase of bigotry and intolerance, a Senate hearing was told June 21.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., chairing the hearing of the Senate Subcommittee on the Constitution, said the nation has made great progress in changing attitudes.

But, he said, "Where there is sickness and poison in our society, let's find out about it so we can move on it."

Simon took testimony on legislation directing the U.S. Department of Justice to gather and annually report information on crimes stemming from hatred for racial, religious, ethnic or sexual preference reasons. The U.S. House of Representatives passed similar legislation May 18. The new data would be included in the National Crime Survey.

"During the past few years, there have been increasing reports of physical and psychological attacks on persons who were targeted simply because of their race, religion, sexual orientation or ethnic origin," said Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich.

"These crimes are intended to intimidate not just their victims, but to spread fear through entire communities."

Conyers and other supporters said the data collection bill is needed to determine how serious the problem is and then give law enforcement agencies the information they need to stop hate crimes.

Each year, many acts of violence and intimidation are motivated by race, religion, ethnicity or sexual orientation," said Rep.

Barbara B. Kennelly, D-Conn. "Unfortunately, we just don't know the extent of these acts because no comprehensive statistics are maintained. But as a society that prides itself on its diversity and tolerance, we need to find out."

A representative of the Justice Department said the legislation is probably unworkable and too expensive. Steven R. Schlesinger, director of the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics, said determining motivation for a crime is often difficult.

But former Sen. James Abourezk, national chairman of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, said cost does not stop the Department of Justice from carrying out programs it likes.

Some witnesses gave graphic examples of hate crimes. Abourezk told of one of his staff members, Alex Odeh, who died when he opened the door of his office in Santa Ana, Calif., and was killed by a bomb wired to the door.

Joan C. Weiss, executive director of the National Institute Against Prejudice and Violence, said an 8-foot swastika was burned on the lawn of a Rockville, Md., Jewish family which had lost many relatives in the Holocaust.

William Yoshino, Midwest director of the Japanese American Citizens League, said a Vietnamese high school student in Davis, Calif., was killed by a white student after a month of racial incidents at the school.

"If we are going to deal with this problem, we need to know its extent," said Simon, sponsor of one of three hate crimes bills. "That seems simple enough, and yet it has not been acted upon."

Motorist arrested at city sticker checkpoint

Joseph Edward Risinger, 27, Collinsville, was arrested at 7:45 p.m. June 25 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol at a city auto sticker checkpoint at 19th and Benton streets. Risinger was also charged with driving while his license was revoked.

Arrest follows collision

Vickie L. Foster, 27, 204 Illinois

Ave., was arrested at 10:52 p.m. June 24 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol following a CRASH at 15th and State streets. Foster allegedly pulled up along the right side of a tractor-trailer truck driven by Billy L. Badman, 36, Palmer, Ill., as Badman was making a right turn onto 15th Street and was struck by the trailer. She was also charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Granite City

Vandal ruins car paint

Thomas A. Bauer, 2324 Washington Ave., reported June 17 that a vandal threw liquid which removed paint from the trunk lid hood and top of his 1974 auto while the car was parked in a rear yard. The liquid appeared to be paint thinner or a similar substance, reports said.

Stereo, tapes stolen

Melissa Parker, 14, 2215A Illinois Ave., reported June 26 that a burglar took a portable stereo, valued at $40, and 15 cassette tapes from her living room.

Felony warrant arrest

Robert Francis Sinclair, 28, St. Louis, was arrested June 25 on a Missouri felony warrant alleging driving while intoxicated, third offense. He was arrested at Ervay's Restaurant, 2220 Pontoon Road, by police investigating a report of a fight.

Parked car burglarized

Harold Smith, 18, 2152A Benton St., reported June 25 a burglar looted his car, parked behind his residence, of a stereo valued at $85, speakers worth $125, a power booster valued at $125 and an equalizer valued at $50.

Burglar loots machines

A burglar broke into two game machines and a juke box at the Pizza Hut, 1533 Johnson Road, June 26. An undetermined amount of coins was taken from each.

Struck with frying pan

Arrie Edwine Anderson, 48, 2011 rear Grand Ave., was arrested

June 21 and booked for battery after he allegedly hit Goldie Viola Stephens, 51, of the 2000 block of Grand Avenue with a frying pan. Stephens was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she received four stitches to close a cut on her forehead.

Radar detector taken

Jeff Hewdon, 22, 3251 Edgewood Ave., reported the burglary June 21 of a radar detector from his car.

Burglar takes bed

Jo Ann Toolen, 2001 Washington Ave., reported the burglary June 22 of a bed, bed sheets, pillowcases and a chair from an unoccupied apartment she owns at 2001 Washington.

Offices burglarized

The offices of Kent Splaingard and Wallace Brylak at 1911 Johnson Road were burglarized June 22. A plastic toolbox was taken from Splaingard's office.

Congratulations to Larry and Sharon (POYNOR) Pirtle on their recent marriage.

Drug possession arrest

Charles H. Johnson, 33, who gave police as his residence the address of a mortuary in East St. Louis, was arrested June 27 at Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza, 605 Illinois 203, and charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Police had responded to a report of a disturbance at the truck stop. They found no disturbance but stopped Johnson for questioning. Alleging he attempted to discard several small packages containing a white substance, they quoted him as identifying it as cocaine.

Car stolen, found later

Daniel L. Miller told police his 1988 Chevrolet Camaro was stolen from in front of 1424 Fourth St. at 10:30 p.m. June 27. The car was found in St. Louis the next day.

Pistol fired, 4 charges filed against suspect

Terry Lamont Willis, 25, 71 Greiner Homes, turned himself in to police June 22 following an incident earlier in the day. Police had responded at 4 p.m. to a report of pistol shots being fired at 16 Greiner Homes, the apartment of a person described as Willis' ex-friend.

Earlier, they had quitted a disturbance at that address by ordering Willis to leave. When he reported to the station, he was charged with aggravated assault, reckless conduct, disobeying a police officer and discharging a firearm in the city.

Boy arrested as burglar

A Venice boy, 14, was arrested in Venice June 24 and transferred to Madison after the burglary of a stereo equalizer worth $130 from a car belonging to Thomas A. Townsend. Townsend had left the car, which had broken down, on Illinois 203 near Bissell Street at 11:30 a.m. When he returned at 1 p.m. he found a car window broken and the item missing.

Residence burglarized

Jim Williams, 1120 State St., told police he came home at 12:12 a.m. June 22 and found the back door open and several items missing.

Parked car burglarized

Bryan Parks, 1123 Meridian St., told police his car was burglarized while it was parked in his front yard during the night of June 20-21. The intruder broke a window and took a stereo and equalizer valued at $275.

Hit-run with blue auto

A car belonging to Arthur T. Cariss, 2816 Washington Ave., was struck in the bumper at 11:17 p.m. June 21 while it was parked in the 2000 block of McCasland Avenue. Witnesses reported the driver of a dark blue Mercury Cougar left the scene.

Doing 'the right thing' is his thing

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — At 74, George Smith, director of the West Madison Recreation Center, 901 W. Third St., looks like he could still leave the javelin a considerable distance.

Smith's hair is now gray tinted with blue and he wears glasses, but at a muscular 6 feet and 200-and-some pounds, he still resembles the powerful young athlete who in 1936 won a regional qualifying meet for the U.S. Olympic team that would compete in Berlin.

That was the summer when, with storm clouds gathering over Europe and Adolf Hitler ranting about "Aryan superiority," another black American athlete named Jesse Owens would deal the Nazis a stunning psychological blow with his overpowering performance.

But Smith had recently married after graduating from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, and with his wife still in school at Tuskegee he had to go to work. He put aside his Olympic dreams and became a teacher and later the principal at Dunbar High School in Madison.

Smith, who grew up in Madison and has lived there for 67 years, later became a teacher and administrator in the St. Louis public school system and a consultant to several universities and municipal school systems. He retired in 1983. His wife, Hazel, also became a teacher, retiring several years ago from the Venice schools after 38 years.

There's nothing particularly remarkable about a man putting aside a personal ambition in order to marry and raise a family, but those who know Smith would probably have been shocked had he done otherwise. The action was consistent with everything the man has stood for in an illustrious career: Responsibility. Sobriety. Correctness.

His plans for a basketball league at the center include bringing in black role models to talk to boys about taking on family responsibilities. Doing the right thing has always been a hallmark of Smith's character. So has the impulse to teach. In the early 1960s, Smith was one of the handful of black tennis players in the bi-state area. They all played at Fairgrounds Park on the north side of St. Louis. Several young black players who got their start there later became world-traveling professionals.

One day in 1961 a young neighborhood white boy, a tennis neophyte, began hanging around the courts. Smith and the others took the boy under their wing and with infinite patience taught him the game. The boy became a pretty good player, which gave him confidence at an age when children are often lacking in confidence.

But Smith and the others

taught that boy more than tennis. They taught him lessons about tolerance and humanity and about the saving virtue of humor. Smith was a tireless and generous teacher.

This writer was that boy and he remembers Smith and the others with affection and gratitude. He was also surprised to find recently how gracefully Smith has aged.

Now Smith, who also attended Dunbar as a boy, has come full circle almost. He finds himself back working across the street from Dunbar at the community center on West Third Street.

And he is still being responsible, still doing the right thing. Dunbar School is boarded up now, but Smith hopes to see it turned into an apartment complex for the elderly and the handicapped.

Smith organized and serves as treasurer of the 32-member Dunbar Alumni Association and Concerned Citizens, a group that has applied for a $3 million Housing and Urban Development grant to fund the rehabilitation project. They hope to hear from HUD by the end of September.

Smith, who speaks carefully and precisely, explained that he and his wife in their retirement "have tried to find ways to make contributions to the quality of life in the community." He is active in the Urban League and volunteers with the United Way and the state mental hospital in St. Louis. She volunteers at the Madison Public Library and the Red Cross.

He is still promoting the sport of tennis, too. He runs a Saturday morning tennis class at the Wohl Community Center in St. Louis, a responsibility he took over some years ago at the dying request of Elmer Smith (no relation). Another oldtime Fairgrounds Park player who had continued teaching the class even as he weakened from cancer.

George Smith gives tennis partial credit for his remarkable good health. Noting the predisposition of blacks to high blood pressure, he is trying to promote "lifetime sports like tennis and swimming" to young people at the West Madison center, although he notes that "we're having some difficulty getting equipment."

Smith notes that good health habits have also figured in his health and longevity: "I take care of myself. I don't drink or smoke. I'm not a carouser and I never have been. I take exercise fairly regularly."

Smith, chuckling, credited tennis with netting him a spouse, too. Hazel Smith was a tournament-class player when he met her. George had dabbled in tennis, being far more interested in football and track-and-field.

In high school I had thought tennis was a sissy sport. But I had to get out on the court to get a little 'courting' time (with Hazel). She used to run me all over the court! So tennis got me a good wife."

It also got him a well-known wife, thanks no doubt partly to the fact that she taught in Venice much longer than he did in Madison.

"This is my hometown," he said, "but more people seem to know her than know me! People will meet me and say, 'Oh, you're Mrs. Smith's husband!'" He chuckled as he said it.

In 1984 both Smiths were inducted into Tuskegee Institute's athletic Hall of Fame for track, she for track and tennis.

Smith believes in a well-rounded life. Athletics are just a part of that. He is proud, for instance, that he was the first black from Madison to finish college.

But he is prouder still that when he later took over as principal of Dunbar High School he was able to get state accreditation for the school.

"We have graduates who are doctors, lawyers, armed forces officers, FBI agents and business people all over the country," he said. "It's gratifying to me that I had a little something to do with that."

One of those graduates is Madison Alderman Charles Rockett. Smith was also Rockett's coach in high school. Rockett, who attended college on an athletic scholarship, says admiringly of Smith, "He's tough, isn't he? Everybody he came in contact with, he put new meaning into their lives."

Half a century after George and Hazel Smith graduated from Tuskegee Institute they returned for the opening of the new Chapel James Smith Center, named for the first black four-star general in the armed forces and another Tuskegee alumnus.

"That was proof that a man can change," Smith said. "George Wallace shed tears there at Tuskegee Institute. He said he had done (as governor) what he thought he had to do at that time. Since then he has done much to foster education for blacks."

A lesser man than Smith might take a less charitable view of the apparent change of heart by the George named Wallace. The George named Smith has always done what "he thought he had to do," too.

But he has had little, if anything, to apologize for and much to be proud of.

Union Station 10 cine sets opening July 15

Wehrenberg Theaters will open its new 10-screen theater in Union Station in St. Louis on Friday, July 15. But two days prior to the public opening, the theater will hold a private, by-invitation-only preview party with cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and what is called a "movie excursion."

All 10 screens are scheduled to be in operation when the theaters officially opens. Two of the auditoriums will feature THX sound enhancement systems.

David Romanic has been named general manager of the new theater complex.

Tall tales

Paul Newman. Okay, now I've got the attention of every woman.

The Olympics. That should take care of the men. What do the two have in common? (Newman and the Olympics, that is; everybody knows men and women have nothing in common.)

Height hype, that's what.

Newman got into a quarrel a couple of years ago with a newspaper that claimed he was 5 feet, 8 inches tall. Newman claimed he was taller but never said exactly how much taller, nor, if memory serves, would he agree to be measured without a substantial wager, which the newspaper declined.

As for the Olympics, the Olympic basketball team apparently uses a different system of measurement than college athletic departments.

When the official measurements were released recently, a number of star athletes on the team turned out to be two or three inches shorter and considerable poundage lighter than the inflated heights given out by college PR apparatuses.

Shrinking athletes were Navy star David Robinson and Kansas non-colossus Danny Manning. Manning, often listed at 7 feet, turned out to be only 6-9.

Even that isn't as bad as what the University of Houston tried to get away with in the case of Akeem (The Dream) Olajuwon. They claimed he was 7 feet. In the press he's now listed at 6-10, but he's 6-9 max. and maybe only 6-8, though it's true he "plays taller."

This height hype works the other way around, too. The Atlanta Hawks' human pogo stick Spud Webb, listed at 5-6 but some say is more like 5-8 or even 5-9. The Washington Bullets' Tyrone "Muggsy" Bogues, it is claimed, is only 5-3, but is probably closer to 5-5.

The idea behind all this is to intimidate on the one hand and discomfite on the other. If you think a guy is 7-foot you'll be less likely to try to slam dunk on him, and if you think he's only 6-foot you'll be free embarrassed when he slams in your face.

I first noticed this years ago. I was standing in a restaurant line with some strangers when a woman asked me how tall I was. "What are you, 6-5, 6-6?" she said.

"No, I'm not quite 6-3," I replied. "Oh, that can't be!" she said. "My husband here is 6-3 and you're at least two inches taller," she said. Her husband quickly changed this subject, his face reddening noticeably.

I noticed it again this past winter playing basketball. We were all sitting around afterwards drinking a few beers. The subject of height came up and several people were asked how tall they were.

You guessed it. Several people claimed to be 7-foot, 10-inch and three inches.

Now, I don't think these guys were lying exactly. It's a widespread phenomenon and one that has fed on itself over the years. Most people never actually get measured. They "guesstimate" their height in relationship to others.

Here's how it works: You ask somebody how tall they are and they tell you a figure inflated by X amount; you figure you're an inch or two taller than him; you then round that figure off and tell your buddy asks you how tall you are. He's taller than you; he does the same thing when somebody asks him and well, pretty soon everybody's notion of their real height is hopelessly out of whack.

Or maybe it starts with fathers inflating their heights for their sons' benefit.

Exceptions to this rule of height hype are extremely rare, so much so that a cop I know was real confused when he tried to match a corpse with a driver's license found with the body. The license listed somebody two inches shorter than the measured height of the dead man.

"I could believe it if the license said two inches taller," he said. "But not two inches shorter. Most guys won't claim to be shorter than they really are."

It turned out to be the dead guy's license, all right. Of course, nobody could ask him why his license was wrong. Dead men tell no "tall tales of pugilistic circles."

On the other hand, they tell no fibs, either.

And that's the long and short of that tune.

"Stir" is a dramatic finish for a painted wall. Apply contrasting plaster over a light painted wall, then draw a notched squeegee down the wall, removing part of the plaster. Use a yardstick to hold the squeegee steady.

Because old wooden porch steps don't always get the maintenance they need, many homeowners opt for masonry. You'll probably need a contractor for poured concrete steps, but "Stir" yourselfers can do a good job with concrete blocks.

Carved moldings, pilasters and other specialty woodwork can add architectural interest to any room. Careful mitering is a key to professional-looking installation.

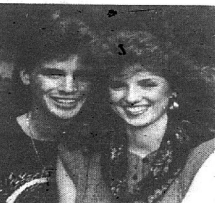

Yes, you can put new wallpaper over old, if it's smooth and lightly sanded, but grease spots may bleed through. Cover spots with stain-killing paint or shellac and let dry before papering. If grease seeps through, it's wiser to strip off the old paper.

Save energy. An insulated cover for your water heater can cut heat loss. It may be advisable to wrap the pipes, too, where they run through unheated areas.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Several years ago the Illinois legislature recognized grandparental visitation in certain circumstances. The Illinois Marriage and Dissolution of Marriage Act provides that a court may grant reasonable visitation to a grandparent where it is in the best interest of the child. Grandparent visitation is also provided for in the Probate Act if the natural and adoptive parents of a child are deceased. The question has arisen in certain cases as to whether the grandparents can obtain visitation with their grandchild when the parents are neither divorced nor deceased.

In one recent case, the natural father of a minor child was a fugitive felon. When the child was 13 months old, the mother left the child with the maternal grandmother and never returned. In June of 1986 the maternal grandmother filed a petition to adopt the child.

The paternal grandparents initially made an effort to stop the adoption, but they later abandoned that effort in exchange for an agreement which allowed the paternal grandparents visitation with their grandson. Under the terms of the agreement, the paternal grandparents were to have visitation on certain holidays and "other occasions as the parties agree."

Later a dispute arose as to specific times of visitation and the paternal grandparents returned to Court to resolve the issue. The maternal grandmother claimed that the paternal grandparents had no legal rights to visitation since the adoption severed the rights of the natural parents and permanently terminated any right of the grandparents to seek visitation. The maternal grandmother further argued that since this case did not involve parents who were either divorced or deceased, the Illinois statutes did not provide for grandparental visitation.

The Appellate Court in this case noted that Illinois courts have recognized grandparents' rights to visitation where "special circumstances" exist. The Court felt this was a case of "special circumstances" since there was a strong similarity between the situation of a child whose custodial parents had died and the situation of a child who had been abandoned by both natural parents. The Court felt that the love and affection of his paternal grandparents may be a very positive benefit to the child. The Court also felt that it was an important consideration that the parties had earlier agreed to this visitation. The Court refused to permit the maternal grandmother to repudiate her obligation under this agreement.

Pit bull

105 City Council acts restricts pit bulls

A sign visible 100 feet away stating "Beware of Dog - Pit Bull" must be posted on the premises. In addition, any pen or kennel must have a similar sign.

If it is to be kept indoors, the dog must be unable to go outdoors on its own. The dog cannot be kept in a house or building where, when the windows or doors are open, screens are the only obstacle preventing escape.

If kept outdoors, the dog must be in a secure pen or kennel locked with a key or combination lock. The pen must have an attached top and either an attached bottom or sides that are embedded at least 2 feet into the ground. It must be lighted, ventilated and kept in a clean and sanitary condition.

If taken outside its confinement, the dog must be on a leash, less than 4 feet long, with a tensile strength of 350 pounds. The dog must be wearing a muzzle. The leash must be controlled by a human - it cannot be tied to an inanimate object.

Each violation of each section of the ordinance is punishable by a $100 to $1,000 fine.

If a court finds the person has failed to properly license and confine the dog, or has been using the dog to fight, the dog will be ordered removed from the city.

The breed of pit bull includes bull terrier, staffordshire bull terrier, American pit bull terrier, American Staffordshire terrier, and dogs of mixed breed or any other breed known as pit bulls, pit bull dogs or pit bull terriers.

Polish-Americans celebrate their ethnic heritage

Madison residents took part in "Wianki," the Festival of Wreaths celebrated June 26 at Kiener Plaza in St. Louis.

The festival is an old Slavic tradition being revived by the Polish-American Cultural Society of Metropolitan St. Louis. A Polish Market was set up with ethnic food, recipes, art, almanacs and other items.

The festival ended with a procession and the traditional blessing of the waters and the floating of wreaths in the amphitheater pool below the cascades.

Polish Hall dancers taking part were: Chris Kult, Jennifer Romanic, David Neukum, Lisa Kult, Toni Mendez, Linda Dohnal, Angela Woytens, Tim Neukum, Stephanie Kult, Jennifer Stimac, Cindy Bisto, Christine Woytens, director Regina Forsy and instructor Lisa Dohnal.

Remember to give something back — merchant

"We must remember to give something back," a local businessman told me this week as he prepared to clean out his desk and begin retirement.

I've always lived in Granite City but my first news duties included the Madison-Venice area, where my contacts included Ray Edwards.

CO-FOUNDER of Sterling Television and Appliance Co., 420 Madison Ave., Madison, Ray is retiring today after a long career of aggressively seeking to expand the volume and scope of retail trade in Madison's principal commercial district.

He and Robert Beckett established the business July 3, 1955, and Beckett will continue its operation. A former Granite City, Beckett resides in Cahokia.

Ray has been active in such service groups as the Madison-Venice Rotary Club and has played a key role in the Madison Business Association.

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

THE DECISION to locate in Madison was reached after the two men had worked together in the operation of an appliance store in St. Louis.

They moved into an available building that had been constructed in 1927 as a savings and loan firm, Champion & Son.

Its second tenant had been the medical office of Dr. David Friedman and the third occupant had been Venice Township Attorney G. Edmond Cook.

IT LATER BECAME the Venice Township office before that office moved next door to 422 Madison Ave.

Edwards and Beckett remodeled their building in 1960 and three years later they expanded it by constructing a 50x22-foot addition.

When matching storefront appearance was proposed for the firms along Madison Avenue in Madison, Sterling TV became the first business to remodel to create an Alpine look.

FEATURING MAJOR brands of air conditioners, refrigerators, freezers, washers, dryers, TV sets and electric and gas ranges, the store has adhered to a motto of "service after the sale."

"When you make your living in a community," Edwards believes, "it is important to give something back" by serving as a volunteer and helping citizens achieve a number of goals.

He was Rotary president in 1976 and led the Madison Business Association in 1983-87 as well as serving on the board of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce in 1983-85.

COMMUNITY BETTERMENT programs of the Chamber of Commerce were chaired by Edwards in 1982-85, and in 1983-85 he was an advisor for the Coordinated Youth Services.

A resident of Florissant, Ray also has kept busy there, including leading the Friends of Girl Scouting in 1984-86.

He was a church deacon in 1974-76 and superintendent in 1983 of the Youth Sunday School at his church. And he has experience as a city planning and zoning commissioner.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA occupy a special place in Ray's heart.

He has been a cubmaster, junior leader training scoutmaster, roundtable commissioner, assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster, district organization and extension chairman, district training staff member and district vice chairman.

Ray also helped lead National Scout Jamboree and Philmont Scout Ranch contingents.

Downtown project a study in unity

The community unity shown in the effort to find an anchor store for the proposed downtown shopping center shows the best of Granite City's dynamic, bulldog spirit.

More than 15,000 letters from Granite Citizens to Wal-Mart from everyday people willing to do whatever it takes to further improve our city's business climate — show we as a community are united behind the downtown revitalization effort.

The people want it, and so do this community's business leaders. Among those helping was Illinois Power Co., which did a remarkable study showing Granite City's economic ability.

Based on the IP study, released in August 1986, there's more than enough retail sales money leaving this city to support an additional 22 restaurants, 13 clothing shops and 10 furniture stores. Granite City residents spend $189 million annually outside of our town.

We need that money back. In addition to the IP study, businessmen and other civic leaders worked on the economic development council responsible for helping to plan the early phases of the downtown project.

From the average guy on the street to our city's highest office, the people want the downtown project to work. The shopping center is a positive, upbeat goal within our grasp and Granite City is reaching for it.

We are convinced the downtown shopping center proposal is workable and worthwhile, and that continued efforts by everyone in this community can make it happen.

Congress letting people die

With hazardous cargoes often rolling through Metro East, consider this tragic 1988 pattern of railroad accidents:

Jan. 14 — Two Conrail engineers and two in the crash, had marijuana in his system. Two tower operators tested positive for amphetamines. The third tower operator tested positive for marijuana and the dispatcher tested positive for morphine and cocaine.

Jan. 22 — A Santa Fe trainmaster was killed and two persons were injured near Pico Rivera, Calif. The conductor tested positive for alcohol use.

Jan. 29 — Nineteen were hurt when an Amtrak switchman misdirected an Amtrak passenger train down a closed track into maintenance-of-way equipment. He tested positive for cocaine, marijuana, metamphetamine and amphetamine.

Feb. 2 — A Union Pacific engineer tested positive for marijuana use after a crash near Durand, Kan.

Feb. 18 — Two were injured in a Norfolk Southern crash near Davy, W.Va. The engineer tested positive for marijuana and the brakeman had been drinking alcohol.

March 18 — After a crash near Moody, Ore., a Burlington Northern engineer tested positive for cocaine.

March 21 — A crash occurred near Dixon, Ill., because a dispatcher directed two Chicago & North Western freight trains down the same track. The dispatcher was drunk. Two brakemen, one on each train, tested positive for marijuana.

April 6 — Five employees involved in the fatal crash of a Metro North commuter train near White Plains, N.Y., tested positive for drugs: Seven other persons were injured. The engineer, who died in the crash, had marijuana in his system. Two tower operators tested positive for amphetamines. The third tower operator tested positive for marijuana and the dispatcher tested positive for morphine and cocaine.

April 18 — A Norfolk Southern crash near Roanoke, Va., caused two injuries. One of the crew members tested positive for marijuana use.

May 21 — Two New Jersey Transit freight trains collided head-on near Fairlawn, N.J., after being directed to operate on the same track by the dispatcher, who tested positive for marijuana. The brakeman was killed.

The list was compiled by Sen. Jack Danforth, R-Mo., who cited the Senate's Oct. 29, 1987, vote (83-7) to require random drug testing of safety-related transportation employees, including train crews, airline pilots, truck drivers and bus drivers. Although the House has not acted on the proposed law, it did vote 377-27, June 15 for a "sense of the House" resolution relating to drug testing of transportation workers.

In view of their effect on large numbers of travelers, it is really valid to argue that random testing would invade these employees' privacy?

People are dying. Congress should take action to stop it.

Now for some restful nights

As the General Assembly moves toward adjourning tonight, it is clear no tax increase will be voted, but the outcome of other proposals remains unclear. Amendments rise dramatically in the closing days sometimes prompting a legislator to vote against his or her own bill.

Senate Bill 1615 began as an "agreed" bill to require companies to notify the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency of on-site activities. Attempted changes would have licensed crane operators, set up an apprenticeship system and created a toxic enforcement program. As the bill awaits House action, it once again is a simple notification bill. But its roller-coaster path illustrates humorist Will Rogers' inability to sleep when lawmakers were in session.

Both states need Scott airport

To the editor:

Before St. Louis officials dig in their heels against commercial development of Scott Air Force Base in Illinois, they should consider why this idea is getting so much attention in the first place.

The answer can be found in the opening pages of the Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) recent study of Scott, which concluded that joint civilian-military use of the air base is "technically feasible."

That modest finding points to several facts which cannot be ignored by those who live west of the Mississippi: The underlying problem noted by the FAA is that Lambert-St. Louis International Airport will soon reach its air traffic capacity.

Lambert already is the 12th most active airport in the nation, posting 10.1 million "passenger enplanements" in 1986. That rate is forecast to hit 17.6 million by the year 2000 — a growth rate of more than 74 percent over the next decade.

To quote the FAA report: "(Lambert's) runways are congested, particularly during adverse weather conditions, and the situation will worsen as traffic increases."

"The shortfall in runway capacity could eventually lead to severe air traffic delays, impeding air transportation to and from St. Louis and rippling out to affect other airports in the national system."

In short, St. Louis may become a major aviation bottleneck, unless steps are taken soon to deal with future growth. How? The FAA identified three main options:

"Add a major new runway at Lambert to increase capacity. But the FAA has already ruled this out, noting that the airport underwent a costly renovation in the early 1970s and doesn't have enough undeveloped land left for another big expansion."

"Build a brand-new airport somewhere else in the region. But the FAA notes obvious drawbacks: Finding a site, and getting Uncle Sam to cough up the massive costs of building a new airport from scratch."

"Gradually develop an existing facility in the region to handle the overflow from Lambert. That means Scott — just 20 miles east of downtown St. Louis."

Some business and government leaders in St. Louis misperceive the Scott proposal as a threat to Lambert. Again quoting from the FAA report, Lambert's market share would not suffer: "A second regional airport 'would supplement, not replace, Lambert. Lambert's continued operation is essential in order to sustain the economy of the surrounding area.'"

"Air carrier facilities at the second airport would be developed in stages, in order to keep pace with demand without creating an uneconomic surplus of airport facilities."

"Over the long range, Scott AFB and Lambert could develop into a successful multi-airport system, comparable to JFK International and LaGuardia Airport or Dulles International and Washington National Airports."

The FAA also has made it clear that civilian development of Scott AFB must overcome some major roadblocks, such as operational concerns raised by the Air Force and the $250 million estimated price tag.

But what is at stake here is the future economic development of the entire St. Louis metropolitan area, east and west of the Mississippi — by providing the basic transportation facilities needed for growth.

Incidentally, this is the same rationale for building the St. Louis light rail project. In the coming debate, residents on both sides of the Mississippi River should remember that St. Louis and Metro East share economic bonds that transcend state borders.

A second airport in Illinois can help the entire region grow and prosper — but only if our leaders have the vision to see it in a positive and inevitable way.

U.S. REP. RICHARD DURBIN (Rep. Richard J. Durbin, D-Ill., Springfield, is a member of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation and has been involved in funding for the Scott joint-use study and the St. Louis light-rail project.)

Letters policy

The Granite City Press-Record welcomes letters to the editor. The newspaper provides the "Letters" column to give readers an opportunity to voice opinions on various items of interest.

Letters should be brief. Typed letters, or letters that are neatly written are given priority treatment. Preference is also given to locally originated letters, but letters from outside the area are accepted.

Each letter must be signed and include the telephone number of the author. Authors may be called for verification purposes. Authors' names may be withheld on request, but the newspaper prefers to print names. There should be a clear reason given to the newspaper for why any name should not be used.

Letters are used as space permits in each of the three issues per week.

The Granite City Press-Record reserves the right to edit letters. Letters may be edited to conform with the newspaper's standards of style, punctuation, grammar and spelling. Long letters may be shortened. Letters containing libel will be edited to delete the libel, or not used. The letter's tone or intention will not be changed.

To participate, send your letters to: Letters to the editor, Granite City Press-Record, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, IL 62040.

Poll discussed

We hope our mayoral election poll gets more people to vote in the 1989 election.

More in this community vote in presidential races, which have polls, than in our city's mayoral races, which usually do not. In 1984, for example, 15,494 voted for Reagan and Mondale, but only 11,031 voted in 1985 for the four Granite City mayoral candidates.

Don't jump to the conclusion that I'm jumping to one.

There's no proof more Granite Citizens will vote in 1989 because we printed a pre-election poll. But then again...

Polls cause at least some of the interest that gets Granite Citizens out to vote in presidential elections while they stay home in mayoral elections. Maybe our poll will have the same result, and if not, we tried and will continue doing so.

The poll adds more to our pre-election coverage than the usual dogmatic approach: a story naming candidates who take our election petitions, a story about candidates filing petitions, debate coverage if there is one and a story outlining candidates' views.

What's wrong with that coverage is four or fewer stories may be all we print before the election. That doesn't do much to inform, and fewer voters may turn out than would have if coverage had been better.

We owe our community better. With the mayor's job being this city's highest office, we can and do give it as close to par with presidential coverage as we can.

We further think everything in our power should be done to let our readers know there will be a mayoral election, who the candidates are, and for what the candidates stand.

The Page One poll today is part of our effort to improve our mayoral election coverage.

The poll is not scientific. In fact, it's a glorified "man on the street" column, but the effort was worthwhile for three reasons:

1) Contenders are named for the first time. None announced candidacy, but none ruled it out.

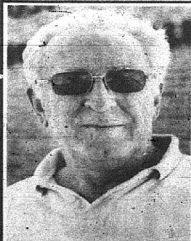

2) Scientific or not, intelligent people won't ignore the thoughts of 105 people. What they said is more than merely interesting; it's indicative of what the public thinks.

3) At this early stage, a story about the 1989 mayoral election was placed before the public. Greater election interest and voter turnout may result.

Illinois savings and loans buck trend, make profits

Savings and loan associations and savings banks in Illinois posted an aggregate net income of $27 million in the first quarter of 1988, the Illinois League of Savings Institutions said Thursday.

"According to data released by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the earnings of Illinois' 261 FSLIC-insured savings institutions were in sharp contrast to the net loss reported during the first quarter by the business nationally," said League Chairman Lawrence Avril.

Nationwide, the business experienced a net loss of $3.3 billion in the first quarter. However, Avril emphasized, most of the first-quarter loss was caused by huge losses reported by insolvent institutions based in the Southwest. The Bank Board reported that three states in the Southwest, Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma, accounted for nearly half of all insolvent institutions and 80 percent of the losses at all insolvent institutions in the first quarter.

According to Bank Board data, 89 percent of the nation's thrifts are solvent. Their deposits are protected by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Solvent institutions reported net income of $613 million in the first quarter. The 11 percent which are insolvent posted a net loss of $4.4 billion during the quarter.

Avril said solvent thrifts in Illinois reported earnings of $91 million in the first quarter—the second highest total in the nation. Institutions in California led the nation in earnings of solvent institutions during the quarter.

Ninety-two percent of the thrifts in Illinois were solvent in the first quarter, according to Avril, who also is chairman and chief executive officer of Illinois' Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The state's 239 solvent institutions, representing 92 percent of Illinois' total assets, reported a first-quarter profit, while 22 insolvent thrifts had losses of $64 million.

Illinois' annualized return on first quarter assets 0.16 percent.

Loan assuming buyer can't hurt your credit

Dear Mr. Campbell:

We have an FHA assumable loan on our house. If we sell our house and the buyer assumes the loan, what is our liability should the buyer default on the loan? Is the mortgage company obligated to notify us of the default and give us the option of resuming payment or can they foreclose immediately? If obligated to notify us, must they notify us once the loan is delinquent or can they wait until it is months past due?

W.R.

Answer: In other words: Can a buyer trash your good credit by faking out on the loan they assume? From a purely technical standpoint, you do remain liable for the future whether it is an FHA loan or a conventional one. But, like an Irish snake-bite, it is an "unlikely danger."

There's nothing that I can find in the Department of Housing and Urban Development literature that would require the lender to notify you, the original buyer, that the present occupant is delinquent or in actual danger of foreclosure. State laws, which differ broadly on the subject, lay down the procedures for foreclosure, and I don't know of any state laws that would require your notification.

Any documents involved—such as the notice of delinquency and, ultimately, the foreclosure papers—would naturally go to the parties, and, on both counts, that's not you, anyone.

I bounced the actuality of the danger you fear off Dale Dykema who heads up TD Services, a firm that handles foreclosures for lenders, individuals and others who have been left holding the bag by home buyers who haven't been able to back it.

"I guess, in the past few years, we've handled about 250,000 to 300,000 foreclosures in the states of California, Arizona and Nevada," Dykema said. "And I would estimate that about 25 percent of them have been FHA loans. I have never heard of a single instance, out of all of them, where the FHA went back to the original borrower seeking a deficiency judgment."

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I refinanced my home in May 1987. The loan is for $60,000 at a rate of 9.05 percent. The monthly payments are $761.68 and do not include taxes or insurance, which I pay separately. I am paying $400 extra each month on the principal. How long will it take to pay off the loan if I continue to do this?

M.P.

Answer: Busy hands are happy hands. If you started making that $400 additional payment to principal at the same time you refinanced, you already have been doing it for more than a year, which means you have only got four and a half more years to go before it's all yours. The $400 add-on, beginning with $60,000 loan and at that interest rate, chops your 10-year mortgage down to five-and-a-half years if you keep at it.

Ryan president Air Products

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Air Products and Chemicals Inc. directors elected Frank J. Ryan as president and chief operating officer effective July 1. This title has been held by Dexter F. Baker, chairman and chief executive officer.

The company has a plant in Granite City. In other executive moves, Dr. J. Robert Lovett, currently president, Air Products Europe, succeeds Ryan as group vice president-chemicals and Harold A. Wagner, vice president-business divisions, chemicals group, becomes president, Air Products Europe.

Baker noted that Ryan's 30-year career at Air Products has included general management experience in both industrial gases and chemicals, the company's core businesses. Baker said, "His appointment and those involving Bob Levett and Harold Wagner will strengthen our exceptional management team in ways best suited to meet the ambitious objectives of our corporate growth plan."

The company also announced election of Frank Ryan and Alexander P. Dyer, executive vice president-gases and equipment, to its board of directors.

Air Products and Chemicals Inc. is a leading international manufacturer and supplier of industrial gases, intermediate chemicals, and process equipment in 21 countries.

In Europe, the company has operations in 11 countries with sales totaling $400 million in 1987.

Boatman's, Centerre merge in $467 million transaction

Boatmen's Bancshares Inc. and Centerre Bancorporation jointly announced that a definitive agreement was signed June 21 for the merger of Centerre into Boatmen's.

Principal terms of the agreement are substantially the same as those in an agreement in principle signed on June 15. That agreement provided that Boatmen's would acquire Centerre through a statutory merger for $60 per share in Boatmen's stock in a transaction valued at $467 million.

Illinois Power Co. offering bond issue

DECATUR — Illinois Power Co. has announced the issue of $75 million of first mortgage bonds, 10 percent series, due 1998. The issue is being offered to the public through an underwriting group composed of the First Boston Corp., Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Kidder, Peabody & Co. Inc.

The net proceeds will be used to pay off short-term loans used to finance previous construction expenditures and for the company's continuing construction program.

The surviving corporation, Boatmen's Bancshares Inc., would consist of 49 banks in 217 locations in three states, Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee, with total assets of $15 billion. As of Dec. 31, 1987, it would have ranked as the 41st largest banking organization in the United States.

The company is engaged in the generation, transmission, distribution and sale of electric power and the distribution and sale of natural gas.

Consumer tips

Teen summer travel jobs may not deliver glamor promised

Q. My son is 17 and is looking for a summer job. Recently he read an ad in the classified ad section recruiting teens to travel and make sales. Is this legitimate?

A. The typical newspaper classified ads that are used to recruit the young and unemployed usually don't mention the company's name, just the name of the recruiter and a local phone number. Interviews are generally held at a local hotel or motel.

Those interviewed generally must decide quickly whether or not to accept the job. The promises are extravagant: big money, travel, advancement—"glamor" of all kinds.

In reality, the jobs may involve selling door-to-door magazine subscriptions, books, perfumes, or chemical cleaners. The hours are long and under very close supervision. Often, food allowances are meager and little time and poor facilities are available for eating. Lodging usually involves several persons sleeping in the same room in a less than glamorous hotel or motel.

Every move is watched. Even phone calls and mail may be screened by supervisors.

There is pressure to meet sales quotas, and pay is by commission only. Some salespersons have been left stranded, far from home, when they haven't made enough sales or have challenged the rules of the company.

Have a consumer question? Write Neil F. Hartigan, Illinois Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 500 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Fee for security?

Q. I am a senior citizen. Recently I received a letter from a company offering a Social Security earnings record for a yearly fee. Do you think this is legitimate?

A. Certain companies often target senior citizens by offering a Social Security earnings record to those willing to pay a yearly fee for the service. But, this is something you can obtain without charge.

Simply contact your local Social Security Office and request a Statement of Earnings Form SSA-7004 PC. Complete and return the form to Social Security and a copy of earnings recorded by Social Security will be mailed to you within a few weeks.

You should check your Social Security earnings record every three years, or more often if you change jobs frequently, to make sure it coincides with your records.

Q. My neighbor and I have been involved in a land dispute for some time, and she finally decided to take me to court to get it all settled.

My friends and family tell me that I ought to get a lawyer, but I don't understand why I should have to spend money on legal fees when I believe that I'm not in the wrong.

A. It's difficult to tell how complicated your situation is from the information you give, but even in a simple disagreement the advice of a lawyer can be well worth the cost.

If you have never had to hire an attorney before, you may wish to contact the Illinois State Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service (toll-free) at 1-800-252-9916. This service cannot provide you legal advice, but it can refer you to an attorney in your area who can assist with your problem.

National Steel lauds local maintenance

Positive results in the January-March quarter are being cited by National Steel Corporation as it reviews its progress in 1988. Chairman Howard M. Love and President Kokiichi Hagiwara said the company earned net income of $13.6 million in the first quarter, compared to a net loss of $5.6 million in the same period of 1987.

Sales in the 1988 first quarter were $618.2 million compared to $537.4 million a year ago.

These results represent the company's best first quarter since the joint venture was formed between National Steel Corp. and Nippon Kokan K.K., National Steel's parent companies.

The first-quarter results were positively impacted by a strong domestic market for flat-rolled steel products, National's princi-

The immediate business outlook is favorable. Consumers have shaken off the concerns that have arisen as a result of last October's stockmarket drop, and most economic indicators remain positive, Love said. The steel market is expected to remain strong at least into the third quarter.

There was also limited progress in reducing manpower. Both roll force and overtime equivalents, that is, the number of full-time employees represented by all overtime hours, were reduced during the quarter.

Love said, "We are encouraged by the increasing involvement of employees in effective shop floor problem-solving across the company."

"Our progress was exemplified by the work of a joint problem-solving team ... at the Granite City Division," Chairman Howard M. Love said. "We believe joint problem-solving by managers and workers is a key to our long-term success."

The BOF (basic oxygen furnace) outage at Granite City, was, however, symptomatic of a problem that is urgently in need of a solution. Unplanned equipment outages continued to adversely affect National's ability to deliver its products to customers on time. The accident, following an equipment malfunction in Granite City's BOF shop in March, injured six employees and took one of two vessels out of production for three weeks.

The result was a serious disruption of operations at a time when the company was still working to reduce a backlog of past-due orders that accumulated following a series of equipment breakdowns last year.

"Poor delivery performance has adversely affected the company's relationship with several customers."

The accident that damaged one of the two BOF vessels made it necessary to reline the vessel.

"Ordinarily, reline procedures require installation of a materials lift in the mouth of the vessel to feed supplies to the workers inside. This would have interfered with other repair work above the furnace that was in progress at the same time."

The accident that damaged one of the two BOF vessels made it necessary to reline the vessel.

FEET FIRST

By Dr. Claude Hiles

Areas at the bottom of the feet that experience the initial impact of walking are protected by "fat pads." These cushions of fat cells absorb a good deal of impact. However, the fat pads, unprotected leading to painful, thin out.For instance, certain medications for high blood pressure, diabetes and arthritis can thin out fat pads. Calluses develop as a form of protection and cause more pain. This situation should be examined by the podiatrist.A podiatrist is dedicated to keep you walking in comfort.
With periodic exams and special attention to any foot disorders, your feet will be in the best condition possible.

Fireworks, craft show highlight park festival

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A five-day festival with many rides, country-western and polka music, a craft show and a giant fireworks display on Monday, July 4, will highlight the 29th annual Fourth of July celebration at Wilson Park.

The festival starts at 6 p.m. today (Thursday) with carnival rides and concession stands operating until 11 p.m.

Operating hours for rides and booths will be from 1 to 11 p.m. Friday through Monday.

Matinees for children when all ride tickets will be priced at three for $1 are scheduled on Friday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The Women's State Softball Tournament also begins today at Wilson Park with qualifying teams playing in the final rounds on Monday, July 4.

Thousands of area residents are expected to attend the traditional fireworks extravaganza beginning at 9 p.m. Monday, July 4.

"We haven't noticed any fewer people attending the fireworks display here in recent years even with the VP Fair show in St. Louis," a park spokesman said Tuesday.

Festival-goers will be entertained by the musical style of four different groups, in addition to the games, food booths and carnival rides.

The Alley Kats Polka Band will perform on Friday, July 1, and the Country Music Machine on Saturday, July 2. Both shows will be presented from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Shelter 5 in Wilson Park.

The annual Summer Craft Show will be presented from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday, July 3, in the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

About 70 crafters from Missouri and Illinois will exhibit their wares.

Hundreds of items will be displayed, including doll waterbeds, handpainted baby and children's items, country-style dolls, Amish-made rocking chairs, bread-dough roses, porcelain ornaments and China dolls, decorative wooden, ceramic and enamelware items, live plants, oil paintings, seagrass baskets, picture frames, personalized sweaters and Victorian baby dolls.

Williams concert tickets available

The Granite City Park District has tickets on sale for the Saturday, July 30, performance of pianist and showman Roger Williams at the Queeny Pop Concert at Greensfelder Recreation Center in St. Louis County.

Williams returns to the Queeny stage with his versions of "Autumn Leaves" and "Born Free" in a concert including a salute to the music of Duke Ellington.

Tickets and bus transportation total $11 and may be reserved at the Wilson Park office, 877-3059.

Kentucky trip July 22

Reservations are being accepted for a three-day trip to Louisville and Lexington, Ky., sponsored by the Granite City Park District.

For more costs and other information, call 877-3059.

Psalm 94:18... "When I said, 'My foot slippeth; thy mercy, O Lord, hold me up.'"

Life is full of discouragements and disappointments. We do not always foresee when they will come. If we did, then perhaps we could be better prepared to handle them.

However, as God's children we have his promise that he will never leave us or forsake us. His mercy endureth forever and he will hold us up. Surely his trials only serve to help us realize that God's grace is sufficient.

The Scriptures teach us that if God be for us, who can be against us? Surely with God all things are possible. Let the Lord hold you up. Today.

Granite City band in V.P. parade Saturday

Twelve high school marching bands, including the Granite City High School band, will compete for trophies and cash prizes totaling $10,000 during the annual V.P. Parade in downtown St. Louis on Saturday at 10 a.m.

The musical competition is sponsored by the Freedom Festival of the V.P. Fair - Schnuck Markets, Famous Barr and KMOX Radio - and features bands from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri.

The parade, which kicks off the three-day V.P. Fair, has a theme this year of "These Are

A Few of My Favorite Things." Bands competing from Illinois are from Pekin High School in Pekin and University High School in Normal in addition to Mater Dei High School in Brees, Granite City High School and O'Fallon Township High School in the St. Louis area.

The first-place band will receive the grand award trophy, a reproduction of the Liberty Bell and $5,000 in cash; second place - a trophy and $3,000 in cash; third place - a trophy and $1,000; fourth and fifth place, each a trophy and $500 in cash.

List of legal fireworks limited

Except for sparklers, smoke bombs, smoke and glowworm pellets and certain trick noisemakers, fireworks in Illinois are banned by law, State Fire Marshal Thomas Bestudik warned today.

"Illegal fireworks include firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrockets, Roman candles, bottle rockets or substances that produce a temporary exhibition effect or visible or audible effect by explosion, combustion or detonation," Bestudik said.

"Despite the more than 390 fireworks injuries suffered over the 1987 July 4 weekend, too many men, women and children will be confident that such things won't happen to them and will be careless and be injured."

The 390 fireworks injuries were reported by Illinois hospitals. Injuries treated by physicians in their offices or not treated at all are unknown.

Of the 390 injuries, 107 were caused by legal fireworks, primarily sparklers.

Bestudik also noted state law provides that "...it shall be unlawful, to knowingly possess, offer for sale, expose for sale, sell at retail or use or explode any fireworks."

Fireworks that are illegal in Illinois are just as illegal if purchased from out of state or bought through the mail.

Many sites offer view of VP Fair fireworks

Everyone has a favorite place from which to view VP Fair fireworks, the grounds of the Gateway Arch being the most popular.

But if you are tired of being stepped on while sitting on The Arch steps, or cannot camp out on park grounds, here are a few alternative locations that will give you good glimpses of the glorious displays.

Just about any spot along Market lends a nice view. At Kiener Plaza, you can see The Arch, the Adam's Mark Hotel and Old Courthouse. If you can park at or near St. Louis Union Station, you will still see the fireworks and have quick access out of downtown.

Another idea is somewhere along Broadway. There is a party atmosphere near the Anheuser-Busch brewery as people gather about 45 minutes before the show with lawn chairs and refreshments to wait for the fun. Boaters who plan to cleverly bob along the Mississippi River for a close-up view should be aware that the U.S. Coast Guard will direct you to tie up your vessel on the western shore of the Mississippi River on Saturday and drop anchor on the eastern shore on Sunday.

Blues, rock 'n' roll on tap

Anheuser-Busch Inc. will present some of the VP Fair's most striking entertainment during the Fourth of July weekend.

Beginning at noon Saturday, July 2, on the South Triangle Super Stage, the Blue City Band will blend a variety of blues styles, to be followed by the Black Music Society Jazz Ensemble performing the works of great artists such as Albert King, George Hudson and Duke Ellington.

During the afternoon hours Saturday, additional appearances will be made by Delux and Rondos Blues Deluxe. During the evening, audiences will hear John Hammond, one of the most outstanding solo blues artists now touring the world.

Hammond has been on the road more than 20 years playing nightclubs, festivals and concert halls. He is highly regarded for his potent vocals and guitar wizardry.

A wide variety of music will be unleashed at 11 a.m. Sunday, July 3, on the South Triangle Super Stage, located near the south leg of the Gateway Arch, beginning with Slang, a group featuring contemporary sounds along with classic rock and rhythm and blues selections.

Also scheduled Saturday is St. Louis' renowned entertainer, Ralph Butler, and Big Fun, a finely-tuned pop-rock group.

The Union Pacific Country Band gets things under way at 11 a.m. Monday (July 4).

Six from O.A.T.H. place at state Special Olympics

Six athletes from O.A.T.H. (Organization for Advancement of the Handicapped) placed in the Illinois State Special Olympics Summer Games in Normal on June 17-19.

O.A.T.H. had two gold medal winners — Karen Green in the standing long jump and softball throw, and Larry Kynion in the wheelchair race. Kynion also took third in the softball throw.

Two won silver medals —

Diane Dorste in the softball throw and Frank Patton in the shot put. Dorste also took third in the standing long jump while Patton had a fifth in the standing long jump.

Pete Vasquez won third in the softball throw and fifth in the 50-meter run. Joe Werner was third in the standing long jump and fourth in the softball throw.

O.A.T.H. also competed in the Area 12 Special Olympics track and field competition on May 7 at SIUE.

Diane Dorste was first in the softball throw and fifth in the standing long jump; Karen Green was first in the softball throw and fourth in the standing long jump; Larry Kynion was first in the wheelchair race and the softball throw; Frank Patton was first in the standing long jump and second in the shot put; Pete Vasquez was first in the softball throw and the 50-meter run; Joe Werner was first in the standing long jump and third in the shot put; Sandy Stone was second in the walking race and fourth in the shot put; Michael Schueter was second in the walking race and third in the shot put; Teit Hampton was third in the shot put and the standing long jump; Margaret Hellrich was fourth in the shot put and the walking race; and Ronnie Crippen was fourth in the shot put and standing long jump.

The first-place winners from that event went to the state meet.

Briggs played soccer, basketball, baseball and track for the Trojans.

Cardinal tickets on sale at park

Tickets are on sale at the Wilson Park office for the third trip of the season to Busch Stadium.

The date of the game is July 20 when the Cardinals play the Los Angeles Dodgers. The game will begin at 12:35 p.m., with the bus leaving the Wilson Park ice rink parking lot at 11 a.m.

The cost of the ticket and bus transportation is $7.

Residents of the Granite City Park District will have priority in purchasing tickets. Each person may buy only two tickets. For more information, call the park office at 877-3059.

YMCA Golf Classic set for July 9

The sixth annual Tri-City Area YMCA Golf Classic will be held July 9 at the Oakbrook Golf Course.

Limited reservations are being taken. There will be a steak social after the tournament at the Annvets Post, 1711 Kennedy Drive, Madison.

The tournament will be a four-person flighted scramble. Tee-off time is 8:15 a.m. The cost for registration for golf and the steak social is $85, $30 for the steak social only.

The first five tournaments raised more than $24,000 for youth programs at the Granite City YMCA. Last year's event raised more than $7,200. More than 80 area businesses donated prizes, gifts and awards for the 1987 event. Veski Inc. will donate more than $1,000 in prizes and merchandise this year.

Eight area businesses and organizations were recognized last year for sponsoring holes for five consecutive years. They were Schermer's Supermarket, Pantera's Pizza, Ironworkers Local 392, Madison County Tavern Owners, DEMCO, Mark Goldenberg & Associates, Venice Volunteer Fire Department and Barnett's Termite and Pest Control.

"These organizations have been instrumental in providing the YMCA with the opportunity to offer such beneficial programs as Day Camp, Youth Basketball and Learn-to-Swim," said Bob Slate, physical program director for the YMCA. "With their help, many smiles have been brought to many faces."

Reservations can be made at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave., Granite City. The tournament chairman is Mike Hilbre, Committee members are Jack Lee, Al Hudzik, Tom Fields, Bob Slate, Paul Sodko, Larry Calvo and Jim Miller.

For more information, call the YMCA at 676-7200.
